

Why did Scientists Come to Write Autobiographies?

Professor Graeme Gooday

Leeds Art Gallery, 6 March 2015, 6:15pm

Free and open to all.

The celebrity scientist publishing a best-selling autobiography is really rather a recent thing. This lecture asks what prompted scientists increasingly to publish their own life stories in the interwar period and considers what effect this has had on who we think scientists are and should be.

For tickets, email oliverlodgenetwork@gmail.com.

Arts & Humanities
Research Council

